ADMIRAL PEARY EXPLORER, DEAD

THE MAN WHO IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE DISCOVERED NORTH POLE DIES AT HOME IN WASHINGTON.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, retired Arctic explorer and discoverer of the North Pole, died at his home here today from pernicious anemia from which he had suffered for several years. He will be buried with full naval honors. Admiral Peary submitted to a blood transfusion at a hospital ten days ago. He later was removed to his home and his condition seemed somewhat improved. He gradually grew weaker however. The transfusion this month was the 25th to which the Admiral had submitted within two years.

It was on the afternoon of September 6, 1909, that the following few words reported to the civilized world for the first time this crowning achievement of three centuries of effort:

"Indian Harbor, via Cape Ray, N. E., September 6.—To the Associated Press, New York.

"Stars and Stripes nailed to North Pole, Peary."

Peary's actual attainment of the Pole had been just five months before on April 6, 1909.

When this dispatch came, the world was, quite unknown to Peary, already praising Dr. Frederick A. Cook as the discoverer. Only four days previous to the Peary announcement, Cook who was on his way back to Copenhagen on board a Danish steamer, had telegraphed the claim that he reached the Pole on April 21, 1908—nearly a year ahead of Peary.

While Dr. Cook's claim did not go unquestioned from the first, he had four days at least been widely acclaimed as the discoverer of the Pole. With Peary's message there arose one of the greatest controversies of all ages over the honor of actual first discovery. There can be no one who has forgotten the dispute. Peary's assertions were not seriously questioned, but among newspaper readers there came to be two great camps, for and against Cook.

Peary with his record of seven successful trips to the Arctic, his official standing in the United States Navy and in scientific circles, easily held the commanding position in the controversy. But it was only after the scientific bodies one by one had sifted the evidence and pronounced Cook's claims unfounded that Peary title as discoverer of the Pole was really won.

The bitterness of this episode is only one item in the price which Peary paid for the immortal fame that is now acknowledged to be his. He spent practically all he had in money, gave all that was left of him for hard work, and suffered all that the human frame could endure from hunger, cold and disappointment. He made eight journeys into the Arctic, spent upwards of half a million dollars and several times he barely escaped the death which in various forms had been the fate of more than 700 explorers before him.

The first step that led Peary toward the Pole was taken in Washington one day when he walked into a book store to browse and picked up a fugitive account of Greenland. He became an insatiable reader on the subject of the Arctic.

He was then 30 years old. He was born in Cresson, Pa., in 1856.

Who Said

"I have devoted all the time and means at my command to the cause of constitutional freedom."

THE name of Salmon P. Chase, one-time governor of Ohio and Secretary of the Treasury in the first administration of President Lincoln, stands out pre-eminently in the list of American jurists.

He first came before the public as a national figure in 1846, when he argued the Fugitive Slave Law with William H. Seward, Secretary of State in the Lincoln cabinet. Chase's support of the anti-slavery cause made him one of the logical leaders of the Free Soil and Republican parties. In 1860 he was a prominent candidate for the presidential nomination, but was defeated by Lincoln.

In 1864 he became chief justice of the Supreme Court and as president of that body presided over the trial of President Johnson. Chase was a sympathizer with the accused man and had little use for the radical reconstructionists who had brought about the impeachment proceedings, but he conducted the hearings with absolute impartiality. He died in New York, May 7, 1873.

Gabe Buys Choc Charges Wife In Alimony Suit

That defendant spends his wages for "choc" and fails to support plaintiff who is unable to work and destitute is the allegation of Mrs. Susana Chaney in a suit for alimony filed yesterday by her attorney E. S. Ratliff.

Plaintiff states that she married defendant April 10, 1919. That he has employment and is receiving $4.00 a day as wages but spends his money for "choc" and for other things unknown to plaintiff. That he has failed and is failing to support plaintiff. That plaintiff is unable to work, that she is expecting to be sick, and has no money to pay a physician to wait on her. Wherefore she asks for weekly alimony in the sum of $15.00.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE MESSAGE AUDIBLE

By the Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 19.—Wireless telephone conversation between New York and Chicago, recently referred to in press dispatches, was audible here on the wireless receiving station erected by Robert Trump who was in the navy radio service during the war. Trump says he has received a number of messages from Robert Gowen, chief engineer of the DeForest Radio Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York, and from R. H. G. Matthews of Chicago.

Gowen, in New York, had communicated with Chicago and supposed that was the extent of his range. Says Trump, but he began picking up the New York conversation on his apparatus here, and notified Gowen by wireless telegraph message that the New York instruments had a much stronger sending power than had been estimated. Although Trump's machine can receive a radio telephone message from any distance, its sending power is limited to 25 or 30 miles.

Associated with Trump in his radio work is F. H. Charlesworth, a Washburn college student, formerly a member of the radio corps of the Thirty-fifth division. Charlesworth, at Washburn college, about a mile from Trump's home, and Trump hold radio "phone" conversations, Charlesworth declaring that even a whisper by Trump into the radio transmitter is audible a mile distant.

"Besides the New York and Chicago conversations I pick up, there is a mystery radio station somewhere in America which has us all guessing," said Trump. "He evidently is keeping his identity a secret, but we hear his concert almost nightly. He seems to have a mania for jazz music. Our inquiries get no response."

By the Associated Press

HAMMOND, Ind. Feb. 20.—It took a Hammond jury two minutes yesterday to acquit Frank Pedroni, an Italian, who admitted he killed Frank Petrich.

Pedroni, a naturalized citizen for seventeen years, had an argument over Austro-Italian claims with Petrich who is said to have been an un-naturalized Red.

During the argument Petrich said: "To hell with the United States." Pedroni shot him dead.

Swiss Government Is Anxious to Join the League of Nations

BERNE, Switzerland, Feb. 20.—Adherence by Switzerland to the League of Nations was recommended by the Swiss government in a message to parliament yesterday. What has been known as the "American clause" by which Switzerland's entry into the league would depend upon similar action by the United States has been abandoned and if parliament approves the recommendation Switzerland will become a member at once.

Military Training Approved

Men Arrested Are Thought To Be Roff Burglars

Sheriff Dupcan returned from Hugo last night bringing with him Tom Johnson and Frank Williams, who are suspected of burglarizing Suddath's store at Roff about the first of the year. The men were arrested at Hugo by the Choctaw County officers. It is said that the Suddath store was entered by means of skeleton keys and that the clothing stolen was not missed for several days. Johnson is said to be 35 years old, while Williams is 27. The suspected parties had a variety of skeleton keys in their possession when arrested.

THOMAS AND HODGES TO ASK RATIFICATION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 20.—Senator Thomas of Medicine Park in the senate and Bert C. Hodges of Okmulgee in the house of representatives probably will introduce bills in the legislature on Monday for the ratification of the national woman suffrage constitutional amendment. Hodges introduced the bill in the house during the session of 1917 which gave women the vote in Oklahoma.

Copies of bills ratifying the federal amendment in other states have been supplied Hodges and Thomas by members of the suffrage organization here and it is expected that the Oklahoma measure will be modeled after them.

Although it is the intention of the governor and many members of the legislature that the coming extra session shall be concluded if possible by Saturday, February 28, that haste is not expected to interfere with investigation of criticism.

It is pointed out by members of the legislature that with the probability of only the suffrage ratification and the deficiency appropriation bills to be considered, there will be ample time during the week for the appointment of an investigating committee and the submission of a report of its findings.

Only a disposition to work is necessary on the part of a committee, it is said, in order for it to get thoroughly into the records of the pardon and parole office and other administrative departments within the six-day period. If the committee's report indicates the need of a prolonged session, adjournment at the end of the week, of course, will not be reached.

High Wages for Husband-Wife Supports Self

That her husband gets $15.00 a day as an oil field worker and falls and refuses to support her is the allegation of Mrs. Ida Gold in a suit for divorce filed in district court yesterday, wherein William A. Gold is defendant. King & Crawford are attorneys for plaintiff.

Plaintiff alleges that she was married to defendant at Hildenville on September 22, 1919. That immediately after their marriage they moved to Kelfer, where defendant got a job in the oil fields. That he failed to support plaintiff and notified the merchants of Kelfer not to sell plaintiff any goods on credit, thereby forcing plaintiff to buy her clothing with her own funds. Wherefore plaintiff asks for a divorce and the restoration of her maiden name of Ida Wymore.

PORTO RICO CALLED "LIVING GRAVEYARD"

SAN JUAN, P. R., Feb. 19.—Complaint that wages "as low as 60 cents for 11 hours work" are paid in Porto Rico was made by Peter J. Brady and Anthony McAndrew, representatives of the American Federation of Labor in a letter they sent recently to Acting Governor Jose E. Benedito demanding "a living wage" for Porto Rican workers. Messrs. Brady and McAndrew were sent to the island to investigate labor conditions. In their letter to the Acting Governor they denounced the situation here as being of such a character as to make Porto Rico a "living graveyard."

The investigators asserted that in some rare instances wages as high as $1.50 had been paid for 11 hours work but only where the best and strongest men could be secured. "The rate of pay for women for the same number of hours was 30 to 60 cents and children get 10 cents up," they informed Signor Benedito. "Many of these children are far below the legal age for employment. Necessities of living being so high, it is impossible for these unfortunate people to live as human beings should."

In asking the Acting Governor to call a conference of the sugar interests, the labor investigators requested that the minimum wage of all male workers be set arbitrarily at $2.50 per day of eight hours and at $1.25 for women and boys but that when the work of the latter was equal to that of the men the rate of $2.50 be paid. They added: "The sugar profits are enormous, so there should be no excuse for these soulless individuals and corporations and Porto Rican statesmen. This starting condition of the people of Porto Rico should not continue a moment longer. The very men who sit in the Porto Rican legislature are the worst profiteers and the most heartless."

It was after the receipt of the foregoing letter that many of the sugar operators agreed to advance wages 30 to 50 per cent with $1.00 to $1.50 a day as a minimum wage.

WE'RE FOR "THE BOYS"

The American Legion is composed of returned soldiers—the brave young fellows who went overseas to the front of the red hell of terror in France—to the cannon's roaring throat—that the power that threatened the safety of the world might be crushed, as it was crushed.

There is nothing too good for these boys. This paper claimed to be patriotic throughout the war. It is no less so because blood has ceased to flow in the trenches of Flanders. We didn't fight because we didn't have the opportunity, and had we had the opportunity we might not have had the courage—but our hat is off to the untimely who did, several of whom we are proud to number among our working force.

This is incidental to the remark that on next Monday night Norman Howard Post of the Legion will hold an entertainment at the City Hall, incidentally for pleasure, but principally for the purpose of raising money with which to eventually build or equip a Legion home or club room here in Ada.

Would it be too much to say that it is the patriotic duty of every citizen who can conscientiously do so to patronize the entertainment and help the boys in a most worthy enterprise?

Were you for the soldier boys during the war, or were you just shouting for fear you would be arrested as a traitor?

If you were for them during the war, is there any reason why you should not be for them now that they have saved your hide from perforation with German bullets?

NEW REPUBLICAN PLATFORM FIXED

MENTION MANY REFORMS TO BE CHAMPIONED AT CHICAGO BUT STAY OFF PROHIBITION

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Adoption of a platform and election of delegates and alternates at large to the national convention was the program before the unofficial republican state convention today. The convention got under way last night when Elihu Root, as temporary chairman delivered the keynote speech in which he attacked the democratic national administration and outlined a proposed platform for the party's guidance.

The sub-committee on resolutions headed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler worked until the early morning hours before an agreement was reached on a tentative platform which will be acted upon during the day.

Among the plans considered by the sub-committee were these: Ratification of the peace treaty with senate amendments; the centralization of executive powers; establishment of a national budget with rigid government economy; revision of the income tax involving tariff changes; Americanization and universal military training.

A "law and order" plank condemning lynching was given considerable attention. It was said no mention will be made of prohibition in the platform.

LITTLE HEALTH TALKS

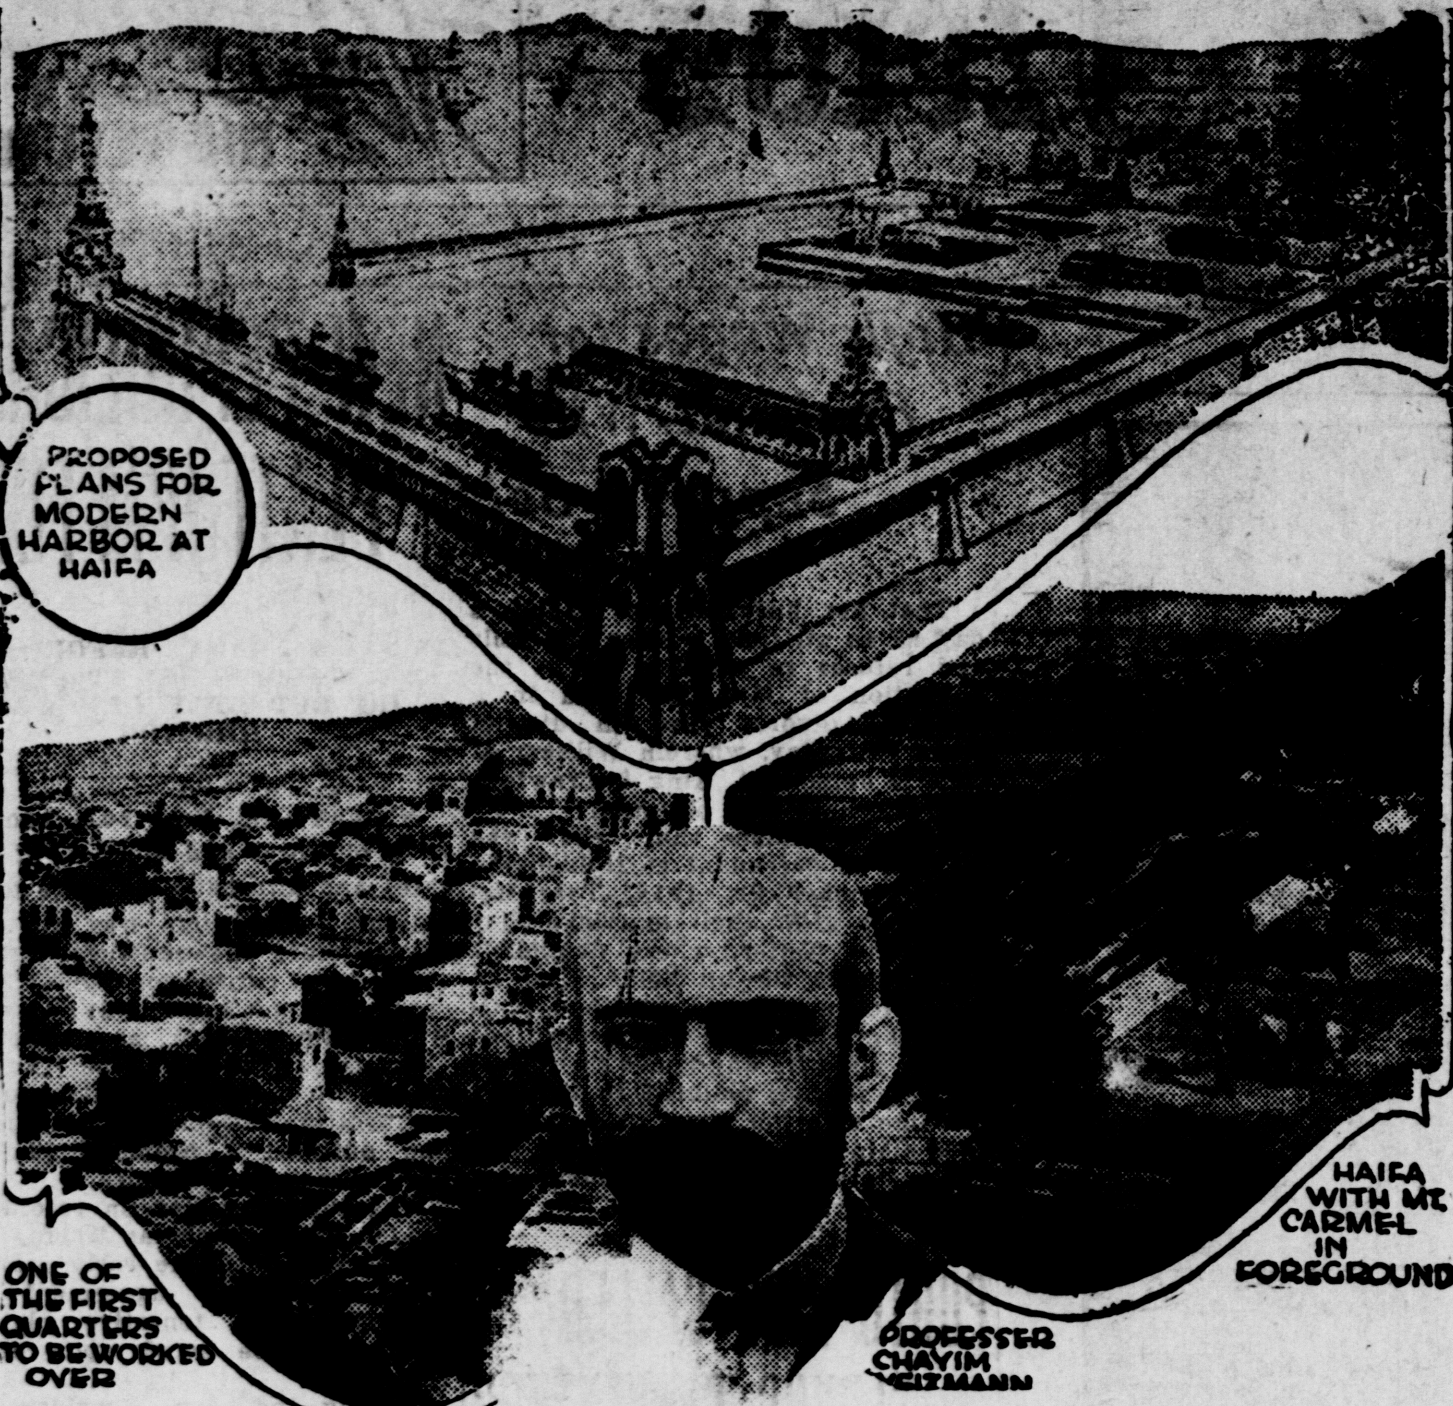

Do you know that you are going to live ten years longer than your father? Vital statistics say so. A man born between 1871 and 1880 had a chance of living to be 41.4 years old, and a woman 44.6 years. A man born between 1910 and 1920 runs a chance of living 51.5 years and a woman 55.4 years. Such are the English figures. In spite of the wonderful work of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, American statistics are so wretchedly bad that no work of importance can be done with them. Some states do not have a half-way decent birth registration even today.

However, while we cannot prove it by statistics, the chances of this wonderfully rapid advance are about the same in America as in England, and they are chiefly the advancement of preventative medicine and the subsequent improvement of sanitation. Doctors a generation ago went about scolding and preaching people into the simplest rules of sanitation that every child knows now. The lay world did not understand the terms of medicine that we use as ordinary speech. Verily, the doctor has not been selfish in his knowledge. The old doctor, who said, in answer to your question, "Doctor, what is that for?" "That is for you" is passing. He takes you into his confidence—to the extent that you are able to share it—and gives you pointers, not only on how to take this medicine, but how to behave now and in the future. He is working to put himself out of a job.

The result is a healthier and longer lived race, in spite of the emphatic howls of the "good old times" folks. Hospitals have done a large share of the work. We are not afraid of hospitals as we were. We know certain sure that they are not among us to collect material for medical students to dissect; gradually it has soaked through that they are here to cure and to teach; for nobody can leave a hospital after a protracted illness without having learned just a little something.

Public health nurses have done their share. They are teaching all the time they are nursing—teaching people that need the teaching most. All this cannot help but raise the health standard.

HOLY LAND TO BE MADE INTO BIG HOMELAND
FOR MILLIONS JEWS WHO ARE NOW FACING DEATH

PROPOSED PLANS FOR MODERN HARBOR AT HAIFA

ONE OF THE FIRST QUARTERS TO BE WORKED OVER

HAIFA WITH MT. CARMEL IN FOREGROUND

To make Haifa not only the leading city of the Eastern Mediterranean, but a great port as well, is the plan of engineering experts engaged in the reconstruction of the Holy Land.

As the first step in the vast restoration program necessary to prepare Palestine to absorb hundreds of thousands of Jews from all over the world, who are waiting with almost frenzied impatience to flee from persecution and massacre as soon as immigration opens up with the signing of the Turkish treaty, these experts plan rebuilding the harbor of Haifa, so that it will be adequate to handle this world mass-immigration and the increased commercial and agricultural production of the Holy Land.

The British government plans spending $5,000,000 for immediate harbor improvements at Haifa, while through the $10,000,000 national campaign for the Palestine Restoration Fund, the Society of Engineers of the Zionist Organization of America will be enabled to undertake the preliminary work, which ultimately is expected to convert Haifa into the most important city of the Near East.

Hand in hand with the harbor improvements, the Zionists engineers plan to build railroads and highways, for irrigation, reclamation of swamp lands, sanitation, agricultural projects, modernizing old cities and building new ones along the coast, all with the end in view of providing facilities in the Holy Land to take care of its thousands of new citizens who are anxiously awaiting the word to go there and assist in establishing the Jewish National Homeland.

Prof. Patrick Geddes of the University of Edinburgh, known as the world's most famous town planner, is at present in Palestine for the Zionist Organization working on the modernizing of Jerusalem, without destroying its historical and biblical aspects, and on the construction of the University of Jerusalem, destined to be the center of Jewish culture and education.

In addition to rebuilding Jerusalem, Prof. Geddes is planning the modernizing of Haifa, Jaffa, Tiberias, Acca and other towns of Palestine, as well as the building of new cities which will be necessary when mass-immigration opens up on a large scale.

Zionist engineers expect Damascus to rival its ancient world importance when rebuilt Haifa provides it with an adequate outlet to the Mediterranean. With Haifa as the port for Damascus, fertile Mesopotamia, as well as for rejuvenated Palestine, the Zionist experts expect to provide a Palestine merchant marine at an expenditure of another $10,000,000.

FLY'S VISIT.

"I think," said the fly, "I will sit on your head. It looks like a nice, comfortable resting place, and almost as nice as a ceiling or window pane."

"Comfortable."

is a nice, comfortable resting place, and almost as nice as a ceiling or a window pane. That is, you said that before you actually got on my head, and that was the way you thought it looked.

"Now you must think so because you're sitting there and don't want to move."

"Well," said the fly, "that doesn't always mean so much. It is cold now, and I am here when I really shouldn't be."

"Well, you needn't stay on my account," said Mrs. White Hen again, who was much annoyed by the fly's visit.

"I'm not," said the fly. "Then, whose account are you staying on?" asked Mrs. White Hen.

"I'm not staying on anyone's account," said the fly. "I'm staying on your head."

"Oh, yes, oh, yes," said Mrs. White Hen, "but I mean that I don't want you and so you needn't stay because you think I do."

"Oh, yes," said the fly, "I understand that was what you meant when you said I needn't stay on your account, and then as I'm very sleepy and lazy and as I've not much more brain anyway I forget what it was you had been saying and only know you were talking about staying somewhere. And of course I was, and still am, staying on your head."

"But you see this isn't the time of year for me. No, if folks saw me they would say: 'Why look at the fly in the winter time. How strange it does seem to see him.'"

"It wouldn't be because they would be glad to see me. Gracious, no. If I had to wait for invitations, Mrs. Hen, I would never visit anyone or anywhere."

"You see, I'm none too healthy a creature to have around, and I'm of little use, and so no one cares particularly for me, and I really don't care much either. I'm not very bright, and I don't feel hurt about it as some creatures would."

"One of the reasons I'm not leaving you is because I'm too lazy. If I could see some sugar around or something to eat I would slowly leave you and sit on the food instead."

"But I see no food around."

"Can't you get off my head?" said Mrs. Hen, still shaking her head. Finally the fly got off and went on top of a railing nearby.

"Why are the roosters over there and why are the hens at this side?" asked the fly. "Aren't you friendly?"

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. White Hen, "but the roosters were having a meeting about the coming spring season and what they thought the future outlook was as regards the market for worms in the ground."

"And we were squatting and sleeping and napping when they began their talk, so we didn't take part in it. You woke me up, you see."

"I'd be sorry for you if I were not a fly, but a fly isn't sorry for anything. And, too, I feel so tired, there is so little life in me, for it is the winter, and I ought not to have come out. I like warm weather."

"You'd better leave, then," said Mrs. White Hen. "For it gets even colder here at night."

She winked slyly to Mrs. Gray Hen, who had just awakened and who saw that the fly still annoyed Mrs. White Hen, for she was afraid he would come back and land on her any moment.

"Yes," said Mrs. White Hen, "I feel like saying good-by to you."

"Good-by," said the fly, as at last it slowly flew off. "I'm never asked for visits, I'm never asked to stay longer, but then I don't care. After all I'm only a fly!"

Spring Sewing for Children

Show windows in January blossom with summery fabrics—sheer white goods, beautiful gingham and chambrays, swiss embroideries and gay, exquisite organdies, along with whatever novelties or less familiar weaves the merchants have gathered. In cold climates they hearten us to anticipate the spring and get ready for it. Everywhere these pretty fabrics appear in company with frocks (and other clothes for children) made of them, so that foresighted mothers are inspired to fit the youngsters out for summer long before it comes. It is cheerful work for midwinter days and ought to be pretty well finished by the time the first robin begins "jollying" with his pipings about spring.

Fine cottons, especially in white goods, are to be used for blouses and dresses for grown-ups, and there will be considerable handwork in their making. This return to favor of fine cotton materials and handwork is a cause for rejoicing on the part of gentlewomen—the kind of clothes they enjoy are in the reach of all of them.

But the first thing that engages mothers is the children's spring sewing, and here are two garments for the little girl and tiny boy that are worth considering. They are simple and pretty, easy to launder and practical.

The girl's dress is cut in one piece with underarm seams that flare outward, from plain chambray which comes in a half dozen good colors. Edges are finished with needlework, and pearl buttons set off the pockets. This frock is worn over a plain white waist with narrow frills, both dress and waist easy to make and to launder. The same materials provide an outfit for a small boy, made into rompers, worn over a white waist. Even the finishing is the same, with needlework edges and pearl buttons accomplishing it in the best way.

There are heavier cottons, romper cloth, cotton gaberdine, cotton poplins and the like, besides gingham and pique, that this one-piece pattern is adapted to. The choice for little girls' dresses is much extended by an array of very attractive gingham in plaids that come in fine colors. Along with these there are materials for thin, white dresses and now ready-made models in colored and white goods that will prove an inspiration to thrifty and enterprising mothers.

SELF CONFIDENCE

By Napoleon Hill

If you are a failure, if you are unhappy and despondent, you may see the person who is most to blame by stepping to the looking glass!

It's sad, but true!

When you begin to succeed you may put it down as a sure thing that you have commenced to believe in yourself.

Through the principle of Auto-Suggestion you are constantly urging yourself on to greater achievement or defeating your aims, to the extent that you have faith in yourself or lack of it.

Wrapped up in that wonderful brain of yours you have all the potential ability which you need with which to succeed in any undertaking that is possible of accomplishment.

You are the only person on earth who can cut the fetters which bind that force and withhold it from use.

The thoughts which you hold in your own mind are being constantly registered in the minds of those with whom you come in contact. This is a scientifically proven fact. Can you not see, then, how necessary it is for you to think well of yourself? Can you not see why you ought to believe in your ability to accomplish all that you undertake.

The line which marks the difference between the successful and the unsuccessful man is definite and easily removed. One believes he can do all that he undertakes and goes ahead and does it; the other one believes he cannot accomplish anything, so he never begins!

If you want to witness a marvelous transformation in yourself, commence now and for ten days stand before a mirror for ten minutes each day, look yourself squarely in the eyes and say—"I believe in you; you can finish everything you start; you can induce people to like you; you can get people to favor you by first favoring them; you can win people's confidence by placing your confidence in them." The result will be startling.

ARBITRATION TO PREVENT STRIKES MUSKOGEE PLAN

MUSKOGEE, Feb. 18.—A plan for arbitration of all disputes between employers and employees may be worked out in Muskogee as a result of the recent conference at Oklahoma City of representatives of employers, workers and public officials from all over the state. The plan, which has the endorsement of the state labor department, will be pushed in Muskogee by Jay Little, city commissioner, who attended the conference.

City officials are expected to take up the fight for industrial peace here following Mr. Little's report on the conference. The plan proposed will be brought before the Central Labor union and Building Trades council, and before the chamber of commerce and other employers' organizations.

Plan Already Used.
"It has worked well in Oklahoma City, where they haven't had any serious strikes in 18 months," said Mr. Little. "It should help Muskogee in just the same way if we can get all sides of industry to back it. Several other cities in the state have adopted the plan and are finding it very useful in settling disputes and bringing about a better understanding between capital and labor."

The plan would provide for establishment of an industrial relations arbitration and conciliation board composed of an equal number of representatives from the employers and employees with selection of an odd arbitrator only in case the others were unable to agree. These men would represent the different industries in the city. Employers and employees alike would be bound by any decision.

Can't Break Contract.
The agreement between the two sides would be made for one year with three months' notice required for abrogation of the contract. Workers are not to strike pending the settlement of any dispute, while employers may not enforce any lockout while the decision is being made.

All questions of mutual concern are to be referred to this arbitration board. If no satisfactory settlement can be obtained after all methods have been tried, the differences are to be submitted to the state board of arbitration for settlement.

Special agreements with building trades workers would include the completion of all contracts at the original wage scale, completion of small jobs by workers of a different craft than normally required, furnishing of competent workers by the unions with privilege of hiring non-union men after period of three days to one week and non-interference with workers during working hours other than by the duly accredited representative.

NEW SICK PRESIDENT BILL IS PRESENTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Another bill to deal with a situation arising from the inability of a president to attend to his presidential duties was introduced in the house. Republican representative Madden of Illinois, offered a measure imposing upon the cabinet the duty to remain when a president is disabled. Mr. Madden's measure proposes that after a president has been unable for six weeks, through physical inability or absent from the house, to convene the cabinet, declare the disability of the president and call upon the vice president to act. The vice president would remain in office until the cabinet should declare the president's disability ended.

Reconstruction of Europe an Appalling Job Thinks Writer

By the Associated Press
LONDON, Feb. 18.—The vastness of the task of reconstructing continental Europe seems appalling to the Saturday Review.
"We are about to witness," it says, "the spectacle of Central and Eastern Europe being handed over to some twenty-four international mixed bodies called commissions. As each commission has on an average seven members, with an attendant army of clerks and secretaries, the reign of the official is likely to be expensive and prolonged. Under the Treaty of Versailles the following 24 commissions must be appointed forthwith:

"To determine the new frontier between Germany and Belgium, trace the frontiers of the Saar Basin, govern the Saar Basin, apportion the stock in the Saar Basin, administer the province of the Central Rhine, delimit the frontiers of Czechoslovakia, determine the boundaries between Germany and Poland, superintend the evacuation of Upper Silesia and take over its government, take over East Prussia after evacuation, administer the plebiscite area of Stuhm, Rosenberg and Marienburg, for the delimitation of the free city of Danzig, take the plebiscite of Silesia, determine the boundaries of Silesia, reduce the German army, the Naval Commission, the Air Force Commission, Repatriation Commission, Clearance of Debts Commission, Insurance Commission, Elbe Commission, for the navigation and management, Oder Commission, Niemen Commission, Danube Commission, and the Reparation Commission."

The latter the Saturday Review describes as "the greatest of all, with the task of skinning Germany alive for the next thirty years or in perpetuity."

"In addition to the above," the Review continued "there is to be set up an International Labor Office, and a permanent Court of International Justice. How long will this vast cobweb of international officials endure? Until the next war, probably."

BERGER CALLS THE AMERICAN LEGION "TOOLS OF TRUSTS"

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 30.—Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee socialist, attacked the American Legion in a speech here last night, as the "cat-paw of capital," declared business "stole" half the money spent by the United States during the war, and reiterated his statement that he would retract nothing he had said against this country's participation in the war.

"If I had it to do over again," he stated, "I would make this difference—I would make my articles stronger, for I know more about it now."

"If Russia wants Communism or Socialism," Berger said, "it is no one's business and England or America has no right to prescribe a form of government for her."

"When the American Legion sailed into New York harbor it found $250,000 waiting to finance its organization. Its purpose is to fight the Bolshevik and any person who wants a dollar increase in salary is a Bolshevik. The American Legion is nothing but the tool of trusts."

Lady Astor Enjoys Attention Paid Her in House of Commons

LONDON, Dec. 31.—"Lady Astor is hugely enjoying the attentions she is receiving in the House of Commons," says the Star. "Her vivacity is infectious. Veteran members of Parliament are always smiling at her. They enter and leave the House with a new elasticity. There is a scramble to sit near her. The labor leaders seem to look up to her, and are fed with a smile that illumines the whole chamber. "She wants to chat with everybody and when, the other night, the Deputy Speaker had called 'order, order,' because she was talking to a member on the floor of the House, Lady Astor at once skipped across the bar, and waved her hand at the Chair as if to say, 'all right, old man, never mind, I daresay I'll do it again before long.'"

STATE REPUBLICAN PROGRAM IS OUT

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF PARTY SETS DATES FOR PRECINCT AND OTHER
CONVENTIONS.

By News' Special Service:
OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 31.—Precinct meetings Feb. 2, county conventions Feb. 5, and the state convention Feb. 11, is the program of the republican party in Oklahoma as a result of the meeting of the republican state central committee. The only test vote at the meeting came upon this item of business. Roy M. Johnson, representing the Hamon faction of the committee, suggested a later date, preferably March 17, but the McGraw forces outnumbered the Hamon members practically two to one, the vote being 41 to 22.

The selection of a secretary was also claimed as a McGraw victory. John Appleby of Hobart and F. D. Bearly of Oklahoma City have both claimed to have been chosen secretary of the committee. Appleby proposed to resign in order to get into the Hamon campaign more actively. At the meeting of the committee, Bearly's former selection as secretary of the committee was ratified.

Although representatives of Governor Lowden and General Wood were present to solicit support and distribute literature advocating the nomination of these two presidential aspirants, there was no expression by the committee.

William H. England of Ponca City, heading the McGraw forces, presented a resolution providing for the selection of a woman member of county central committees from each precinct in the state.

The representation in the state convention Feb. 11, which is to be held for the purpose of selecting delegates to the national convention in Chicago, will be on the basis of one delegate for each 100 votes cast for Horace McKeever for governor in 1918. Wherever a county convention has been called to select congressional delegates, these meetings are to also select the delegates to the state convention.

The McGraw adherents view the result of the meeting here as the end of the movement to displace McGraw on the national committee and they are confident that neither Hamon nor Harris will measure to sufficient strength to become real factors of the committeemanship contest.

RED CROSS AIDED 24,642 IN NOVEMBER

Some idea of the volume of informational work being carried on by the Red Cross will be made clear when it is made known that 24,642 calls for assistance were made upon the Home Service sections throughout the nation during November. This is slightly under the rate of 1,000 a day.

A report on the Home Service activities for the month reveals that there are still 349,616 men in various establishments about the country and information largely concerning the Government's plan for the welfare of the men was given in 37,005 cases. Of the Home Service cases, 3,460 pertained to allotment and allowance difficulties, which continue to disturb the men and their families, and 834 pertained to compensation due disabled men. A total of 4,470 cases involved pre-sessional problems of the men, while 1,499 requests for family relief were received and brought to the attention of Home Service Sections. Miscellaneous friendly aid was requested in 5,859 cases.

The success which has attended the efforts of the Red Cross in obtaining the delivery of delayed Liberty Loan Bonds has caused an influx of such requests, which during October, totaled 3,730. The military authorities requested furloughs and discharge investigations in 1,340 cases, which were referred to local Red Cross Chapters for attention.

The Red Cross representatives at military and naval hospitals, continuing co-operation with the medical authorities, in the interest of disabled service men, referred 6,161 requests for after-care and similar investigations to local Red Cross Chapters for their assistance, during the month.

Stock Markets

Kansas City Stockyards, Dec. 29.—Hog prices today were 10 to 15 cents higher, with the top price $14.20, and bulk of sales, $13.60 to $14.10. The early estimate of 12,000 was exceeded by 2,000, and the market closed active at the advance. Cattle receipts were 17,000 and the market weakened on steers and held steady on other grades. Most of the killing steers were short fed grades that sold at $11.50 to $15.00. Some prime 1450 pound steers brought $18.00. The sheep market was steady with prime fed lambs selling up to $17.50, the top price of the season.

Today's Receipts.
Receipts today were 17,000 cattle, 14,000 hogs and 7,000 sheep, compared to 10,000 cattle, 14,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep a week ago, and 22,600 cattle, 23,300 hogs and 3475 sheep a year ago. Practically no Western cattle were offered, and the bulk of the sheep came from Missouri and Kansas feed lots.

Beef Cattle.
Fat steers were 25 to 35 cents lower. Short fed grades predominated in today's offerings of fat cattle. Most of them sold at $11.50 to $13.50, with the best here up to $18.00. They weighed 1450 pounds and had been full fed. This is the highest price since the second week in December, when prime steers reached $22.00. From now on full fed steers will be scarce as feeders are making a quick turn from feed lots. A few pulp fed steers are coming and they are bringing $13.00 to $13.75. A good many cows from wheat fields are offered and prices range from $7.50 to $9.50 with fed grades up to $12.25. Fat heifers and mixed yearlings are lacking. Veal calves were up 50 cents, top $16.50.

Stockers and Feeders.
Favorable weather conditions and larger receipts increased the volume of business in stockers and feeders. Prices were steady at last week's 50 to 75 cent advance. Inquiry for feeding steers will probably increase in the next few weeks as a good many feed lots are to be refilled following the December marketings. Heavy feeders are quoted at $10.25 to $12.50, plain to common light weight grades $8.75 to $10.00. Stockers are quoted at $7.75 to $10.50, and light stock cows and heifers $6.25 to $8.25.

Hogs.
Active demand for the 14,000 hogs offered today cleared the market at 10 to 20 cents higher prices. Both packers and shippers bought freely, and in addition to their local buy, packers received close to 3,000 hogs direct from other markets. The local market remains in a relatively high position. The top price today was $14.20, and bulk of sales $13.60 to $14.10. Pigs and thin hogs are in moderate supply, and find a ready country outlet at $12.00 to $13.50.

Sheep and Lambs.
Though not quotably higher, lambs sold today up to $17.50, the highest price thus far this season. Other fed lambs sold at $16.75 to $17.40. Killers bought freely. Ewes are quoted at $10.00 to $11.00, and yearlings $14.00 to $15.00. Feeding lambs are bringing $13.50 to $14.50. Receipts remain moderate. It will be some time before Northern Colorado lambs begin to move.

Soldier Rises to Fame In Politics to Later Find He's Convicted

By the Associated Press:

PARIS, Dec. 31.—An extraordinary story of the election of a French soldier to the Chamber of Deputies and his subsequent conviction by court-martial and sentence to imprisonment for two years has come to light here. Lieutenant Verniers, of artillery, is the man. When the tickets were being prepared for the election, a soldier candidate was desired in the Department of the Nord and Verniers' name was proposed by a national republican senator who said that Verniers had 56 wounds and had received 17 citations for bravery.

Verniers was then in a hospital but he was elected without appearing before his constituents. Later it was learned that he was charged with stealing 20,000 francs from the funds of his regiment. He was court-martialed and sentenced to two years imprisonment and has resigned from the Chamber of Deputies, after having been a member of that body for 48 hours.

TAKES ACTION.

By News' Special Service:

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 31.—Owners of motor driven vehicles will not be required to pay their 1920 license tax until after the supreme court has decided the appeal involving the sufficiency of signatures to the referendum petitions filed against House Bill 509, the act of the 1919 legislature which provided new rates for auto license fees. This statement was made yesterday by Henry Wood, state highway commissioner, under whose jurisdiction the auto license tax collections rest.

Commissioner Wood says that he looks for a decision by the supreme court next week, as he has been informed that the case has been turned over to the justices and that he has been requested by the court to handle the case as expeditiously as possible. It is understood that the court will conference on the case probably Friday and it is believed that the decision will be handed down at the next opinion day, Tuesday of next week.

When House Bill 509, which was to have been effective tomorrow was appealed to the supreme court, Commissioner Wood prepared a form for applications for license tags which included the information necessary to be given under the old law and the one effective after today. It was planned to use the new law's provisions if the decision of the court sustained the law and the old one if the court held that the referendum petitions were sufficient. In view of the fact that the case is likely to be decided next week Commissioner Wood concluded to decline to issue tags or accept applications until the decision was given.

If the supreme court holds that the referendum petitions were insufficient, the new law, known as House Bill 509, will become immediately effective. However, if the court's decision favors those who oppose the law and seek to have it referred to a vote of the people it is likely that the law would not be effective for a year or more. It is presumed, in the event that the referendum petitions are held sufficient, that the law will be referred to a vote of the people at the next general election, although it would be possible for the law to be referred at a special election proclaimed by the governor.

SPEAKING OF BAILEY

The first effect of Bailey's Gainesville speech was to move the Texas boundary about a hundred miles up into Oklahoma. The Red river counties of this fair state have already gone for Bailey by heavy majorities while the second and third tiers of counties are developing considerable sentiment for the Standard Oil kid. In Southern Oklahoma there is more interest in Texas politics than there is in the politics of Oklahoma.

That Bailey touched a highly responsive chord when he spoke at his old Cooke County home is unquestioned. That much of his speech is personal spleen is evident. That his candidacy will shake Texas as the Lone Star has never before been shaken is already conceded. And that he has gripped thousands of his ancient enemies even his enemies admit. Why so?

Bailey comes out of a quassi of retirement at a time when the country is thirsting for just what he advocates. The country is tired of innovation. It is tired of bolshevism masquerading as progressivism. It is tired of unrestrained federalism. It is tired of quack nostrums circulated as national panaceas. It is tired of national and departmental inefficiency. It is tired and dog tired of official interference with individual rights guaranteed by the constitution. It is tired of the continued infliction of kaiserism on a people who have suffered much to make a world safe for Democracy.

Whether it be a conviction or a nightmare many people believe the time has come when they must demand the preservation of individual liberty or see that liberty go glimmering. Rightly or wrongly they are convinced that the covenant once delivered to the fathers has passed into alien hands and that of the splendid principles interwoven with the warp and woof of our national life nothing remains but a name. When they see the evidences of bureaucracy in every village and federal tax gatherers on every street, they begin to wonder what has become of the old Democratic dictum that the least governed people is the best governed.

Into an atmosphere charged with resentment against federal and official encroachment on individualism comes Joseph Weldon Bailey, the greatest campaigner that ever rang the Welkin on the Southwestern prairies. Forgotten is the day of the Bailey myth. Forgotten is the Kirby loan. Forgotten is the day that Bailey aligned himself with the oleaginous pirates who fought under the Jolly Roger. An indignant people who know what they want are listening to the man who tells them how to get what they want.

A REAL EMERGENCY

If any emergency of sufficient magnitude to warrant legislative action at this time really exists, it would seem to be the emergency respecting the salaries of the teachers of Oklahoma. The public is fully advised as to the situation with reference to the inadequate pay of our teachers and we believe that public sentiment strongly demands remedial legislation. The best teachers of Oklahoma are being driven into other professions by considerations of economic determinism, and if the state wishes to keep its schools among the average schools of the nation, the state beyond question must enact some measure of relief.

The argument that the last legislature erred in failing to provide relief may be answered with the statement that the last legislature could not anticipate the continued abnormal increase in prices. No legislator dreamed that mid-winter conditions would be aggravated. Even if the lawmakers did signally fail to perform a patent duty, it is high time their delinquency should be corrected. We believe emphatically that the most important question that could be submitted to the special session is the question of adequate pay for our teachers.

Bryan is out, McAdoo resigned, Lane quit, Lansing was fired, but Burleson hangs on to his cabinet portfolio like a lean tick to a negro's shin.

Oklahoma stood the war all right and is standing its second epidemic of influenza. Maybe it will be able to survive a second session of the Seventh legislature.

Now a congressional investigating committee has condemned the entire aviation branch of the service during the war. It says that the air fighting was "dangerous."

Pretty pictures, prize fights, and straw votes are often ruined by being framed.—Collier's.

Shawnee News: Whatever else comes of the Newberry case the fact has been developed that there are a whole lot of fellows up in Michigan who have their price, just as they have elsewhere, and this latter does not particularly refer to the contest for national committee of the republican party in Oklahoma either.

Oklahoman: In a speech in the senate, Senator Townsend said: "No wonder the people get out of patience with the senate when it debates every subject in the world except the bill before it." But Townsend should remember that if the senate dealt with the pending measures, some of the latter might be enacted into laws.

CHAMP CLARK SAYS DEWITT ALLEN WAS BIG BIRD CHARMER

By the Associated Press
LIBERTY, Mo., Feb. 19.—Col. Dewitt C. Allen, who died here recently at the age of 84, studied law in the office of Alexander Doniphan and was a life-long admirer of the great Missourian. He loved to tell of the great prestige Doniphan had in western Missouri, after his return from his famous expedition into Mexico, which was described some years ago by Champ Clark, former speaker of the House of Representatives, as "the march of the One Thousand," a greater military exploit than Xenophon's march of the ten thousand.

"Doniphan was a great orator and a great popular figure," Colonel Allen frequently said. "Had he so chosen, he could have been elected to almost any office within the gift of the people of Missouri. But he preferred to lead the life of a Missouri country gentleman, and after his return from Mexico declined to take any further part in public life."

"But despite his modesty he remained a great public figure, and the news that he was to speak at any public gathering always brought crowds of people from the surrounding country. His eloquence was wonderful, men said that when he began speaking he could charm the very birds in the trees."

"That was probably a fanciful statement; and yet I remember very distinctly one fall when Doniphan was to speak, the trees in the courthouse square were swarming with noisy blackbirds. It was feared that Doniphan could not make himself heard, and efforts were made to drive out the birds, but without success. The crowd assembled, and Doniphan began to talk. As his deep voice rolled out, the crowded square grew still, and men held their breaths to listen. And, you may believe it or not, but in five minutes the very birds in the trees were still as though charmed by the spell of Doniphan's eloquence."

Dead Negro Spoke To the Embalmer; Said He Was Cold

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 19.—It was shortly after midnight. The body of a negro, stretched out on a slab preparatory to embalming, slowly raised to sitting position. Then "it" spoke:

"Man, I'm cold. Give me mah clothes."

One minute later the city emergency hospital got this call from the undertaking establishment:

"Rush the ambulance over here. There's a dead man come to life, and if you don't get here quick, all my help will be gone."

The ambulance surgeon found that Dan Clay, 48 years old, pronounced dead of influenza and taken to the undertaking establishment for burial preparations, had "come to life" after reclining on a marble slab for two hours.

INCOME TAX FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

Numerous inquiries are received by collectors of internal revenue concerning the Income Tax in its relation to the combined net income of husband and wife. Occasionally these questions indicate that there is in the mind of the taxpayer the impression that income received by the husband if turned over to the wife may be regarded as a gift and therefore it not taxable. Such, however, is not the case. If the combined income of husband and wife for the year 1919 equaled or exceeded $2,000, a return must be filed on or before March 15, 1920. The combined net income of husband and wife in excess of $2,000 is taxable. The law provides that the income of minor dependent children must be included in the return of the parent.

For example, a husband's net income for 1919 was $1,200. His wife, employed as a seamstress, received from such work a net income of $500. Two minor sons, dependent upon their parents, each received $500 as messengers. The total family income was $2,700, from which may be deducted the personal exemption of $2,000 plus $200 for each dependent son, leaving a taxable income of $300, on which, at the normal rate of 4 per cent, the tax is $12.

Surtax Rates.
Where the combined income of husband and wife is $5,000 or less the wife's return may be included in that of her husband. Where the combined income exceeds $5,000, separate returns are required for the purpose of computing the surtax, which applies only to incomes in excess of that amount.

The following will serve as an illustration of the combined tax on husband and wife: The net income of a husband for 1919 was $7,000 and that of his wife $2,000. From the husband's income may be deducted the personal exemption of $2,000. On the first $4,000, at the normal rate of 4 per cent, the tax is $160. On the remaining $3,000, at the normal rate of 8 per cent, the tax is $240, making the total normal tax of the husband $400. In addition he pays a surtax of 1 per cent on the amount of his net income between $5,000 and $6,000, amounting to $10; an 2 per cent on the amount of his net income between $6,000 and $7,000, amounting to $20, making a total normal and surtax of $270. The wife can claim no personal exemption, and her entire income of $2,000 is taxed at the rate of 4 per cent, being less than $4,000. The combined income of husband and wife on an aggregate income of $9,000 is $350.

Head of a Family.
The exemption of $2,000 allowed the head of a family also is the subject of frequent inquiry. A single person is the head of a family if he is the sole support of the relatives living in the same household with him, and if he exercises control over household affairs. In the absence of continuous residence together the circumstances of the separation may determine the amount of the exemption. Whether or not he is the head of a family, a single person, if his net income for 1919 was $1,000 or more he must file a return. For example, a widower has a son 9 years old whom he is supporting in a school because his income of $1,600 a year does not permit him to maintain a home. Since he is not married, he must file a return, but as the head of a family he is entitled to an exemption of $2,000, with an additional exemption of $200 because of the dependent child.

Dependents.
Mere support of a dependent who continuously and without necessity resides elsewhere than in the home of the taxpayer, however, does not confer the $2,000 exemption, though it may be made the basis of a claim of $200 for a dependent. For each person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon him for support the taxpayer is allowed an exemption of $200, provided such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support.

This exemption does not depend upon family relationship nor whether the taxpayer and dependent are members of the same household. Thus a taxpayer, unmarried and living in the city, who supports a mother incapable of self-support and who from choice lives in the old homestead in the country, is entitled to an exemption of $1,200. The separation is not one of necessity. If, however, the mother should live under the same roof with the son, he would be entitled to the $2,000 exemption allowed the head of a family.

Experts Offer Services.
Careful study of the forms now in the hands of collectors and deputy collectors of internal revenue for distribution among taxpayers will aid greatly in the filing of a correct return. If, however, the taxpayers meet with unusual difficulties they may call upon the bureau's experts, who are visiting every county in the United States to assist taxpayer meets with unusual difficulties. The services of these experts is offered without cost, but failure of the taxpayer to see them does not relieve him from his obligation to file his return, accompanied by at least one-fourth of the amount of tax due, on or before March 15, 1920.

Teachers Lose Last Game After Mighty Struggle

After rushing the Kendall five off their feet and taking the lead in the early part of the game last night, the East Central basketball team slowed up in the second half and lost to the visitors the second time, the score being 39 to 14. The first half was spectacular and thrilling. Kendall took the lead in the first minute of play. East Central evened up the score and forged ahead in the next three minutes and held the lead until just before the whistle blew. The half ended 12 to 10 in favor of the visitors.

Seemingly a bit nervous in the last half, the locals slowed up a bit and did not handle the ball with the same degree of accuracy that they did in the first half. In addition to this, after the Tulsans had failed to take a big lead in the first twenty minutes of play, they were given a good dressing down by Coach Smith and they came to life in wonderful fashion. They did the greatest work ever seen on the local court that last twenty minutes, playing lightning like ball ever minute of the time.

Lamb was the star for the visitors last evening, eclipsing Grove and Williams and Keck. His goal shooting was little less than marvelous and he covered a big territory.

For the locals again Roach starred, but was not far in the lead of Heard and Ingram. Newcomb, playing at guard, proved effective in stopping the shots of Keck, one of the stars of the evening before.

The playing of the locals last evening would have won against any other team in Oklahoma. It was championship class and shows how diligently and effectively E. C. Wilson has worked with the Pedagogos and that East Central has some good athletic material.

Mary Pickford in "Heart O' the Hills" was the attraction at the Liberty Theater last evening, and is billed for this evening again. Mary Pickford is undoubtedly one of the screen stars of the first magnitude, and she never fails to please. The scenic beauty of this particular picture—the mountains of old Kentucky—could hardly be surpassed. Today is the last chance to see it.

The American
William Farnum, advertised as the highest salaried man on the screen, will be seen at the American tonight in that wonderful production of William Fox, entitled, "Wolves of the Night." You can't very well afford to miss this great picture.

This Minister Agrees With Us To Some Extent

"Let's Have a Little Sense"
An article appeared in yesterday's News under the above caption. What is written here in response is an expression of individual opinion, not written in the name of the Ministers Union.

I want to say that I heartily support the suggestions of this article. They are timely. Let me quote: "Saloons, Pool halls, dance halls, as such, and practically every other refuge or recreation of other days have been driven to the scrap heap and branded as immoral." It is true that the saloon has been "driven to the scrap heap," and we have no doubt that the pool halls and dance halls have been "driven to the scrap heap," though that is where they belong. These remain with us and are real factors in our social life. But they are demoralizing factors. In our opinion these have done as much to destroy moral character as the saloon has ever done. They, and especially the dance, have been more insidious in their approaches. The church, as an institution, has always stood against dancing, and it is safe to say that what the church has always stood against, for moral reasons, for nineteen hundred years, can not be practiced without tremendous risk to moral character and it is a deep seated conviction in nearly every minister's heart that the dance is a character-destroying influence. Surely this conviction is not without some good reason behind it. Certainly, let the saloon, the pool hall, and the dance hall, and all like institutions be relegated to the scrap heap. Civilization will be all the better for it.

To quote again: "Are we going to offer a substitute of something better, or are we going to let the boys and girls take to the bushes, the tall grass and to hell?" "Are we hypocrites, grandstanders and bulldozers, set on tearing down the bad with a blare of trumpets, or are we honest and sincere enough to not only tear down the bad but to substitute legitimate and wholesome amusement and recreation instead?"

"Instead of driving the youth to the alleys, highways and hedges, let's give them athletic clubs, club rooms and decent places of assembly."

To all of these we say "amen." And this should apply, not only to the members of the American Legion, but to all the young people of the community, to the young women as well as to the young men. What this town needs is a Y. M. C. A. building and a Y. W. C. A. building. It needs them now, and it will need them more in the future than it does now. Ada is sure to grow.

Our people are enterprising, and everything now gives promise of rapid growth. In such places our young people could spend their evenings reading and in healthful, clean recreation. The city owes such accommodations to the young people of the present generation as well as to those of the coming generations. Are these buildings an impossibility now? We think not. What is money weighed against morals? Can we not provide places for clean amusement that will not tend to arouse the natural passions? I am safe in saying that the ministers of the city will gladly co-operate in any such movement. Our objection to present amusements does not mean that we are opposed to all amusements. Amusements are right and necessary. Amusement is based on a God-given instinct, and therefore it is right that it should be satisfied. But let the amusement be clean. It is unfortunate that there is such a demand for public amusement. It would be far better if young people spent more of their evenings at home under the loving watch and care of their parents, and they would if parents would see that the home is made more attractive. In this day it seems to be the desire of children to spend as many of their evenings as possible away from home instead of at home. Is it any wonder that so many young people go wrong and amount to nothing in life? But if they will be away from home, let us, in the name of true young manhood and womanhood, provide some place for them to go where it will be clean and pure, where morals are not destroyed, where commercialism does not hold character cheap. Where only the best and purest in us is fostered. We are ready to co-operate in any movement to provide a worthy substitute for the present unwholesome forms of amusement.

C. V. DUMM,
President of the Ministers' Union.

Armed Raiders Attack Police
By the Associated Press
TRALEE, COUNTY CAREY, Ireland, Feb. 19.—After a three hour siege in which hand grenades, rifles and revolvers were freely used and an attack on police barracks by armed raiders was repulsed here early today. One police officer was wounded and it is believed three raiders were struck by bullets.

TO SAVE STEP-MOTHER

Rather than see his sweetheart's mother murdered, Jason Honeycutt shoots his own father in "Heart O' the Hills," adapted from the story by John Fox Jr., starring Mary Pickford and which will be shown at the Liberty Theatre, today.

The marriage of the Widow Hawn to Steve Honeycutt was bitterly opposed by the children who knew that the older Honeycutt's love plans were nothing more than trick-

Red Cross Will Aid Prisoners of War In Far Away Siberia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. — The American Red Cross has made arrangements to undertake the transmission of money from individuals in America to German, Austrian and Hungarian prisoners of war in Siberia. It was announced today at National Red Cross Headquarters. A statement issued by the Red Cross says: "This service will be rendered until the withdrawal of our representatives from that country. After that time it may be practicable to render this service through other organizations such as the Swiss, Danish and Swedish Red Cross Societies and notice will be issued by the American Red Cross when the exact date of withdrawal of its representatives from Siberia can be ascertained. "All remittances should be made payable to the American Red Cross Headquarters, Siberian Prisoners' Relief, Washington, D. C. In each case the following information must be submitted: Full name, rank and nationality of the payee; location of the prison camp where last heard from, and statement as to whether the funds to be transmitted are to be used for relief of the individual, or exclusively for repatriation expenses. It is estimated that $250 will cover the cost of repatriating an individual from Siberia to his country in Europe. The American Red Cross cannot guarantee, however, that this amount will be sufficient to cover transportation costs, owing to the continually changing conditions in Siberia. "In sending money for transmission, it should be stated whether or not payment is to be made by cable. If so, an additional amount of $6.00 must be included to defray cable costs. In this connection it is necessary to point out that money transmitted through the mails may take one month to six weeks to reach Vladivostok. Further allowance of time is required for locating the individual in Siberia and making the payment. "Payments will be made in Siberia through the Red Cross, provided the places where the individuals are located are accessible to Red Cross personnel. Where this is not possible the Red Cross will seek to make delivery through other organizations such as the Swiss, Danish and Swedish Red Cross. When the use of such agencies seems advisable, the Red Cross can assume no obligations beyond actual delivery of such sums to these other organizations. In all cases of delivery of remittances by Red Cross personnel effort will be made to secure the receipt of the payee, and if it should prove impossible to effect delivery in any case, the Red Cross must necessarily reserve to itself the privilege of returning such remittance to the original sender. Every reasonable precaution will be taken to safeguard the transmission of the proper amounts to the proper persons, but beyond guaranteeing that such precautions will be taken, the Red Cross cannot assume liability for errors, delays and non-transmittals that may occur. Why Advertised Stores Succeed

The advertised store gives the people news in which the people are interested. The closer an item of fact comes to the personal affairs of the people, the more persons are interested in it. There are few items in a newspaper that come closer home to our daily life than an announcement that a merchant has a lot of goods which he can offer at an unusually low price. When you get a lot of people to reading about a store and what it is doing and offering, the same people will soon be seen visiting that store. The desire is so keen to avoid the high prices, that any suggestion of economies attracts a crowd. A store that advertises bargains impresses them as a store where there is life and motion and things doing. So the advertised store is the well filled store, and the well filled store is the store that does a big business.

"OVERTHROW WORLD ORDER!" CRY COMMUNISTS

Manifesto of Communist International, Seized in U. S. Department of Justice Raids, Tells "Reds" Own Story of Their Plans for World Wide Plunder.

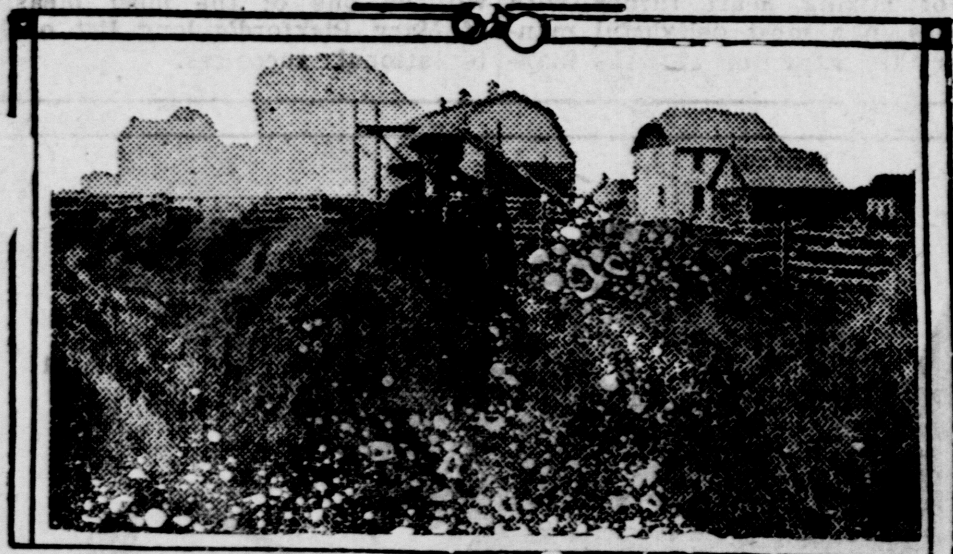

Extracts from "Manifesto of the Communist International—Adopted by the Congress of the Communist International at Moscow, March 2-8, 1919, and signed by Comrades C. Rakovsky, N. Lenin, M. Zinovjev, L. Trotsky and Fritz Platten." Alongside the dethroned dynasties of the Romanoffs, Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs, and the capitalistic cliques of these lands, the rulers of France, England, Italy and the United States stand revealed in the light of unfolding events and diplomatic disclosures in their immeasurable villainies. Spurning the half-heartedness, hypocrisy and corruption of the decadent official socialist parties, the Communists assembled in the Third International, feel themselves to be the direct successors of the heroic efforts and martyrdom of a long series of revolutionary generations from Babeuf to Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg. As the First International foresaw the future development and pointed the way; as the Second International gathered together and organized millions of the proletariat, so the Third International is the international of open mass-action of the revolutionary realization, the international of deeds. Socialist criticism has sufficiently stigmatized the bourgeois world order. The task of the International Communist Party is now to overthrow this order and to erect in its place the structure of the socialist world order. We urge the working men and women of all countries to unite under the Communist banner, the emblem under which the first great victories have already been won. Proletarians of all lands! In the war against imperialistic barbarity, against monarchy, against the privileged classes, against the bourgeois state and bourgeois property, against all forms and varieties of social and national oppression—UNITE! Under the standard of the Workingmen's Councils, under the banner of the Third International, in the revolutionary struggle for power and the Dictatorship of the Proletariat, proletarians of all countries UNITE! The revolutionary era compels the proletariat to make use of the means of battle which will concentrate its entire energies, namely, mass action, with its logical resultant, direct conflict with the governmental machinery in open combat. All other methods, such as revolutionary use of bourgeois parliamentarism, will be of only secondary significance. The indispensable condition for successful struggle is separation not only from the direct servitors of Capitalism and enemies of the communist revolution, in which role the Social Democrats of the Right appear, but also from the Party of the Center (Kautskians), who desert the proletariat at the critical moment in order to come to terms with its open antagonists. The growth of the revolutionary movement in all lands, the dangers of suppression of this revolution through the coalition of capitalistic States, the attempts of the Socialist betrayers to unite with one another (the formation of the Yellow "International" at Berne), and to give their services to the Wilsonian League; finally, the absolute necessity for co-ordination of proletarian actions—all these demand the formation of a real revolutionary and real proletarian Communist International. This International, which subordinates the so-called national interests to the interests of the international revolution, will personify the mutual help of the proletariat of the different countries for without economic and other mutual helpfulness the proletariat will not be able to organize the new society. Incalculable are the sacrifices of the working class. Their best—Liebknecht, Rosa Luxemburg—they have lost. Against this the proletariat must defend itself, defend at any price. The Communist International calls the entire world proletariat to this final struggle. DOWN WITH THE IMPERIAL CONSPIRACY OF CAPITAL! LONG LIVE THE INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCE OF THE PROLETARIAN COUNCILS! CHINOOK-WARMED VALLEYS YIELD BIG CABBAGES WEIGHING 25 POUNDS EACH

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Cabbages weighing twenty-five pounds each, that a six-year-old child can hide behind, wheat over a man's head and forty-five bushels to the acre, oats up to a horse's shoulders—these are some of the products of the rich farming lands warmed by Chinook winds in British Columbia. Settlers in British Columbia have a variety of land to choose from. Of the 250,000,000 acres in the province, 92,000,000 are forest lands, and of this area 33,000,000 acres carry merchantable timber. Once cleared, much of this land is as rich agriculturally as any in Canada. The great profit and numerous sawmills furnish a convenient market. The timber industry of the province is being rapidly developed. Devastated Europe is clamoring for all the timber America can supply and the Panama canal opens to British Columbia a direct sea route for an immense lumber trade. There are, also, many valleys and rolling lands along the rivers and water courses whose soil is declared by experts, to be as rich as any on the continent. Two districts already have been surveyed by the government and laid out for settlement. Nechako valley around Vanderhoof, ley valley. While the lands are rated as good for grain as those of the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, British Columbia farmers have gone in for mixed farming and find it pays better in the long run than to stake all their year's prospects on a single crop of wheat.

Slim Sallee

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Slim Sallee, veteran left hander, has been struggling between two desires for several seasons. One was to lead the simple life and the other was to stay in baseball. Slim found he couldn't do both. But at last Slim's mind is at rest. Baseball has won out—as most of Sallee's friends were sure it would. Slim has sold his farm down at Higginsport, O., and has signed up for another year's work with the champion Reds.

Slim was born in said Higginsport, Feb. 3, 1885. He started playing pro ball with the Meridian club in the Cotton States league in 1905, but was sold to the Birmingham Southern league club before the season was over. He pitched there two years and then the Yanks obtained him, only to release him to Williamsport in May 1907. That fall the Cardinals drafted him and he served eight years in the baseball cellar. When all hope seemed gone along came the Giants with an offer to the Cards of $10,000 for Slim and on July 23, 1916, the deal was made.

Slim won eighteen and lost seven games for the Giants in 1917 and broke even with eight wins and eight defeats in 1918, and then announced he was through with baseball, preferring farm life to the n't persuade him to reconsider his plaudits of the fans. McGraw could-

Valedictory of Winter Millinery

There is some midwinter millinery that says "hail and farewell" almost in the same breath—appearing as the last development of winter styles and disappearing to make way for the demiseason hats that precede those for spring. The different types of millinery are represented in these last exponents of the season's ideas, as street hats, dress hats and picture hats.

A hat that will prove equal to almost any sort of wear appears in the very elegant street model at the top of the group pictured above. It has a stiff, smoothly covered crown of tan satin and an uneven brim, turned sharply up at the left side, faced with black velvet. There are folds of satin forming a band about the crown, and jet motifs applied at the front and sides. The shape and colors used in this hat proclaim it a street model made of materials that will place it in the ranks of dresser hats and allow it to be very useful.

The soft hat of crepe georgette, with extended brim facing of velvet, can be developed in any good combination of two colors. It is a background for a splendid rose and beautiful foliage, or any other gorgeous flower that may be used as the star performer in the production of a distinguished dressy hat. It is a bit of fine art in millinery that will pass under the most critical of eyes and compel their approval—and more.

The wide-brimmed hat at the right betrays the fancy of its designer, unhampered by any thought of utility, disporting itself with airy and fine fabrics, to make a thing whose mission is simply to be lovely. Its crown is of narrow moire ribbon, placed row after row. The brim is made of layers of malines, and between these appear silk applique clusters of grapes and foliage.

Julia Bottomly

move and gave it up. Pat Moran slipped down to Higginsport one day and over some ham and eggs talked Slim into pitching for the Reds. He won twenty-one games for Pat, holding up his end of the pitching. In the world series he won the second game of the classic and lost the seventh.

An interesting sidelight on Slim's big league career is that in eleven years in which he faced the Cincinnati Reds on the mound they were able to beat him only ten times while going down to defeat before his arm twenty-four times.

BAILEY ATTACKS ADMINISTRATION AND "DRY" LAW

GAINESVILLE, Tex., Feb. 19.—Former Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, in an address here yesterday afternoon, assailed "progressive democracy" as exemplified in the present national administration, scored governmental "extravagance," taxation and the league of nations, and pronounced the federal prohibition and woman suffrage amendments invasion of state rights.

Much interest attached to Mr. Bailey's utterances as many auditors accepted it as the "opening gun" of the state campaign to be carried on by the "Bailey faction" of Texas democrats, which declared at a conference in Fort Worth last fall its opposition to the present state and federal administrations and urged a return of the treaty to "the principles of Jefferson."

Those principles, Mr. Bailey said in his prepared address, "were once cherished by every man in this country who called himself a democrat; but within the last few years a strange sect, calling themselves 'progressive democrats,' has arisen among us, and their leaders boldly proclaim that while our principles were sufficient in the days of our fathers, they cannot be applied to the conditions under which we now live."

The speaker declared that contention "not true," for principles

"never change; they are as immutable as truth and justice," but "disregarding that obvious and vital truth, these prophets of a new cult, when they came into power, now almost seven years ago, proceeded to substitute 'progressive policies' for democratic principles."

"That was an experiment in 1913; it is an experiment now, and the result is an almost universal discontent," the former senator continued. "What else but evil could a democrat have expected when he saw the principles of our party abandoned and socialistic vagaries adopted by those whom we had chosen to conduct the government?"

Mr. Bailey compared expenditures of the present administration with those of presidents Buchanan and Cleveland, in 1860 and 1888 respectively, declaring the per capita cost in 1860 was less than $2, while in 1916 it was more than $17. In 1916, Mr. Bailey said, "the Wilson expenses were $1,300,000,000, while during the next fiscal year it will require $5,249,000,000." Deducting interest on the war debt and other expenditures directly caused by the war, "we will still have an ordinary expenditure of $4,000,000,000 in the next fiscal year, as against $1,800,000,000 in 1916," the speaker said.

"They are spending our money like drunken sailors," Mr. Bailey continued. "They are wasting much of it in enterprises which do not relate to any proper function of federal government, and they are worse than wasting much of it in multiplying offices until we now have more than 700,000 federal office holders."

The Pawhuska Capital Says Defeat of Gore Is Our Partiotic Duty

From Pawhuska Capital:

Senator Gore is now trying to harken the attention of the people back to other days when he was in good standing in the councils of the democratic party.

Gore is now sending out cards under the privilege of the frank telling of a speech of his that Bryan endorsed, Bryan, perhaps, does not appreciate Gore's recent tactics.

When our house was on fire, Gore would have studied out some engineering work to prevent future fires and at the same time let the house burn, Gore is trying other schemes to get the public back with him. But the American people who fought; the American people whose sons fought; the American people who were loyal during the war, will not soon forget the attitude of Gore in the war. He was an obstructionist. It should be the patriotic duty of every loyal Oklahoman to defeat for nomination Senator Gore.

The Daily Capital considers it a patriotic duty to endeavor to defeat Gore, and to that end the ability of this paper will be directed. The Daily Capital editor is better acquainted with Gore than he is with Scott Ferris. But Scott Ferris proved himself no coward when this nation was in war; when this nation was standing with its back to a wall fighting the heinous criminal nation that would devour our great nation with its brilliant history and achievements. Scott Ferris was doing with his great ability at Washington what could be done to help in a great cause.

Long ago during the war the editor of this paper purposed in his heart that America needed better men than Gore at Washington. The real patriots of this state will work with untiring energy to defeat Gore. Let's not forget the other days when we were all bending our energies to a purpose that meant the saving of the nation. Let's not forget the days when our loved ones were in the war; the days when we were all waiting with tear-stained eyes when the word would be sent out that brother or son or husband, to go abroad and sail over a sea with the greatest of perils, to fight on another shore the enemy of free government. Let's remember those in the times of trial who failed to stand the test. There are to be other times when we need men of strong character to meet the emergencies. Big men are needed in congress all the time. A weakling is dangerous anywhere in a commanding position.

Let's elect men to represent us in the highest councils of legislative service who will always put their energies effectively in the cause and serve our purposes in the conduct of the nation's affairs in a manner that will be acceptable. Let's send to Washington men who will inspire pride in our country, rather than inspire a hatred that aggravates and assists in the open rebellion that characterized the actions of certain groups in some counties of Oklahoma during the war.

And now we must keep our eyes open to sense the unscrupulous politician in whatever party he may be. There will be those henchmen who will hope to see Gore nominated that the republican nominee might be elected. Gore right now has more real "supporters" among the politicians of the opposite party, than he has in the democratic party. You are going to find a lot of republicans who will openly support Gore. For should he be nominated, he will surely be defeated. For there are thousands of people in this state who will consider it a patriotic duty to defeat this man. Let's defeat him in the primary. For we now have a man who has been well trained in the lower house and who has been found capable, and who is running against Gore in the primary who will serve the state well in the senate. But unless Gore is defeated in the primary election, Scott Ferris can not be sent to take Gore's place. We can make sure of the election of an efficient man by the defeat of Gore in the primary election. Then let's devote our energies to this cause. It is big enough to attract the best minds in the state. It is a cause that is bigger than a mere candidate's contest. It is a cause growing out of the war that is like unto the cause of the war.

His father died when he was three years old, and his mother took him to Portland, Me., where he spent his boyhood, roaming about Casco Bay. He went to Bowdoin College, won fame there as a runner and jumper and stood in the honor column of scholarship. It was a little later that he had gone to Washington to work as a draughtsman in the Coast and Geodetic offices. He spent his spare time studying civil engineering and passed in that branch into the naval service. He became Lieutenant Peary, U. S. N.

His first assignment was to the tropics. He was a leader of the surveying for the Nicaraguan canal route. It was then he returned to Washington that he fell upon the book about Greenland, and thereafter virtually consecrated himself to polar exploration. Obtaining leave from the naval service, he led an expedition into Greenland, to determine the extent of this mysterious land. He determined its insularity, discovered and named many arctic points which today are familiar names—such as Independence Bay, Melville Land, and Helfrin Land, and in one of his later voyages he discovered the famous meteorites which he brought back to civilization. One of them weighing 80 tons, is the wonder of visitors to the museum of Natural History, New York.

Between voyages Peary resorted to the lecture platform to raise funds for further polar exploration. In one instance he delivered 168 lectures in 96 days raising $13,000. On his sixth voyage, with the Pole in view, he had given up because both of his feet became frozen. Although he had reached the most northerly land in the world—naming it Cape Morris K. Jessup at the tip of Greenland—and had also attained Lat. 84.17, the northernmost record in the Western World, he was still in great despair. He wrote in his diary:

"The game is off. My dream of sixteen years is ended. I have made the best fight I know. I believe it was a good one. But I cannot accomplish the impossible."

By the time Peary reached civilization, however, he had decided upon still another trip. With the specially designed ship Roosevelt, Peary drove further into the frozen oceans than any navigator had ever been before. On foot he advanced until his record for this seventh trip stood at 86.6, where starvation and cold again checked the party.

The explorer was 52 years old when in July 1908 he set out on his eighth and successful invasion of the Polar region. Captain Bartlett, the veteran navigator for Peary, shouted to Col. Roosevelt as the ship was leaving its wharf at New York: "It's the Pole or bust this time, Mr. President."

The method of attacking the Pole was in five detachments, pushing north in the manner of a telescope. At the 88th parallel Peary parted with Captain Bartlett, in charge of the 4th detachment, and he with one member of his crew and four eskimos made the final dash. They covered the 135 miles in five days.

Thirty hours from April 6 and 7 were spent at and around the Pole—a great tract of frozen sea—none of the land which Dr. Cook reported. The weather was cloudless and flawless. The temperature ranged from 33 below to 12 below. Where open places permitted soundings, 9,000 feet of wire, which was all that Peary had, failed to touch the bottom.

When he got back to civilization Peary was surprised to find such a fierce controversy raging over him and his rival Dr. Cook, but he easily established his claim before scientific bodies throughout the world. He was raised to the rank of Read Admiral of the United States Navy and retired on pay; Congress voted him its thanks in a special act, and gold medals, declarations and honors of many kinds were showered upon him.

A scientific and popular narrative of his success he wrote into a book called "The North Pole", while his other expeditions are described in detail in his "Northward over the Great Ice" and "Nearest the Pole." Peary's closing years were spent in well-earned rest, diving for a large part of the time with his family of three—wife, daughter and son—on Eagle Island, off the coast from Portland, Me. Mrs. Peary was formerly Josephine Diebitsch, of Washington, D. C., marrying the explorer in 1888. She frequently accompanied her husband on his forthright journeys, and on one of these trips Marie Ahnighito Peary was born and bears the distinction of being born farther north than any other white child in the world. She is popularly known as "The Snow Baby."

Wilson Adams Has Been Released By The Mexican Bandits

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 20—Wilson Adams, an American mine superintendent, has been released by the bandits who kidnapped him for ransom from the Providencia Mine in Mexico, and has arrived safely in Saltillo, according to a telegram received today by the American Metal Company, Limited, his employer. The bandits demanded $25,000 ransom but the telegram did not say whether the money had been paid or whether Adams' release was forced by Mexican government troops who were known to be in pursuit. Adams' wife lives in Los Angeles, Calif.

LEVIN PURCHASES COOPER BUILDING

An important deal has been closed whereby M. Levin acquires title to the concrete building on North Broadway formerly belonging to W. M. Cooper. The building is one of the substantial properties of Ada and commanded a handsome price when purchased by Mr. Levin.

MUSIC TEACHER IS NOW ENTHUSIASTIC

MISS CANTRIL DECLARES TAN-LAC IS BEST MEDICINE SHE EVER HEARD OF.

"I am simply delighted over my wonderful improvement since I began taking Tanlac," was the enthusiastic statement made by Miss Louise Cantril, popular music teacher of 8405 Elm Street, Los Angeles, Cal.

"For as long as I can remember my kidneys troubled me and I rarely ever got a good night's rest," she continued. "I lost my appetite completely and what I managed to swallow by sheer force of will would ferment and cause so much gas that my heart would palpitate terribly and at times I came near fainting. I fell off from one hundred and twenty pounds to ninety-eight and was so nervous and weak I had to give up my work."

"Medicines and treatments did not do me a bit of good and I lost faith in them. A friend of mine kept insisting that I try Tanlac and to please her I did. Now I can't thank her enough, for the way Tanlac helped me is nothing short of remarkable. My appetite came right back and I eat anything I want without the slightest trouble. My kidneys seem to be in perfect shape and I sleep all night long like a child. I have gained so much in weight and strength and am so happy I don't hesitate to say Tanlac is the best medicine I ever heard of."

Tanlac is sold in Ada by Gwin & Mays Drug Co., in Stonewall by L. F. Carpenter, in Francis by Francis Drug Co., and in Roff by Dowdy's Pharmacy.
